In 1920 I went to Iraq. I travelled across the desert.

Soon I was lost. I only had one bottle of water and no food.

I made friends with the Bedouins. I lived in the camp.

Then I went to Baghdad and learned Arabic.

One day, I packed again. I wanted a new adventure.

There was a girl inside the factory.

Ali and Mel climbed through the window.

Suddenly, there was a terrible noise.

A minute later, there were two men at the door.

Miriam's e-mail was just a silly joke.

First, I visited a beautiful valley.

After that, I went to an ancient city.

I looked for the source of the river Euphrates.

Finally, I explored the mountains in the north.
